International Law Association Index of the Reports of Conferences

First updated edition since 1975!

This Index covers 140 years of reports of the ILA Conferences. During this time an enormous number of reports, recommendations, draft articles, draft conventions, guidelines, model laws, best practices and other types of documents have been produced by the International Law Association. Many of these have had an impact on the further development of international law either in practice or in its scholarly understanding, some in a profound manner by influencing further substantial developments and others by simply helping to ensure that certain topics made it onto the international agenda.

Without this Index it would be almost impossible to trace developments in international law as reflected in the work of the ILA back to the 19th century!
