A.A.L.S. Comments . . .

This series includes the printing of manuscripts, new editions, and translations of works having an important bearing on English Legal History.

The introductions to the individual volumes also contain very important scholarship on the history of English Law.

The Seldon Society was founded in 1887, largely by the efforts of Frederic William Maitland, to encourage the study and advance the knowledge of the history of English law. The only learned society and publisher devoted to English legal history, the Seldon Society researches and publishes the history of the law, development of legal ideas, the legal profession, the courts, judges and lawyers, literature and legal records, and essentially everything that is characteristic of English common law and the legal system. The Seldon Society publishes original source materials that have never been in print, making its publications a unique icon of legal research.

More Information...

The Selden Society's principal achievement has been the publication of its annual series, now numbering 128 volumes. In these volumes are edited and printed, for the first time, the essential source materials of the common law: law reports going back to the middle ages (the year books series), plea rolls and courts' records, eyre rolls of itinerant justices, select leading cases in the courts of King's Bench, Chancery, Star Chamber, Admiralty, Requests, Exchequer Chamber, and Privy Council; and in local, manorial, ecclesiastical, and mercantile courts.

Select charters of trading companies, borough customs, and records of public works show the development of business enterprise and local government. Professional literature, early treatises, formularies, judges' notebooks, lecturers' readings, and students' moots show the development of the legal profession, early legal education, the inns of court, and their teaching methods.

The series comprises most of the source-material for the history of the common law that has ever been printed. The original manuscript texts are carefully transcribed; and if in Latin or French, a modern translation is normally provided on the facing page. The contents of each volume are explained and discussed in its introduction; and these introductions therefore represent much of the research and scholarship that has been devoted over the past hundred years to the development of the common law and its institutions.

< Volume 106, for 1990. ENGLISH LAWSUITS FROM WILLIAM I TO RICHARD I, Volume I. WILLIAM I TO STEPHEN. Edited by Professor R. C. van Caenegem, University of Ghent. This two-volume collection, previously announced as a new Placita Anglo-Normannica, brings together all significant account of lawsuits between 1066 and 1199, drawn from chronicles, charters and similar sources. It shows that the period before the formal limit of legal memory is by no means prehistoric, and provides the materials for an assessment of the institutional and procedural changes wrought in this period.

< Volume 108, for 1992. HALE AND FLEETWOOD ON ADMIRALTY JURISDICTION. Edited by M.J. Prichard, Fellow of Gonville and Caius College, and D.E.C. Yale, Fellow of Christ's College, Cambridge. Unlike Volumes 6 and 11, which contain specimen admiralty cases, the principal object of this volume is to present in detail the argument over maritime jurisdiction as it was developed in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. A full historical introduction is followed by editions of two previously unpublished treatises, one by Serjeant William Fleetwood (d. 1594) and the other by Sir Matthew Hale (d. 1676).

< Volume 109, for 1993. REPORTS FROM THE LOST NOTEBOOKS OF SIR JAMES DYER, Volume I. Edited by Professor J.H. Baker, Fellow of St. Catharine's College, Cambridge. This is the first edition of Elizabethan law reports to be undertaken by the Society and covers the period of Dyer's chief justiceship of the Common Pleas (1559-81), with a few older cases going back to 1541. The contents supplement the vulgate edition of Dyer, from which over 500 cases and memoranda were omitted. The Introduction, besides giving a sketch of the reporter, concentrates on the issues of public law found in the reports: the Crown and the royal prerogative, Parliament and legislation, treason and public order, questions of religion, the protection of individual liberty against abuses of executive authority, and the work of the prerogative courts. The text of this volume contains the reports (not before printed) from 1541 to 1571.
ISBN 0-85423-183-8

< Volume 110, for 1994. REPORTS FROM THE LOST NOTEBOOKS OF SIR JAMES DYER, Volume II. Edited by Professor J.H. Baker, Fellow of St. Catharine's College, Cambridge. This volume concludes the edition which commences in Volume 109, with the main reports continued from 1571 to 1581, and an edition of Dyer's circuit notebook (1554-81). The latter is the earliest continuous record of circuit practice, and the only such notebook ever to have been printed. There are indexes and tables to both volumes.

< Volume 111, for 1995. EARLIEST ENGLISH LAW REPORTS, Volume I. Edited by Dr. Paul Brand. English law-reporting began at the end of Henry III's reign, but during the first half of the reign of his successor Edward I there is no Common Bench term for which more than seven datable reports survive. Volumes 111-112 contain all the reports of 142 cases heard in the Common Bench between 1268 and 1289, being all those which are identifiable as such in the miscellaneous collections of undated reports found in manuscript. Three-quarters of the cases have been identified in the plea rolls, and the matching enrolments are printed with the reports. The introduction describes the main manuscripts from which the reports are taken, and gives background information about the justices mentioned in them.

< Volume 112, for 1996. EARLIEST ENGLISH LAW REPORTS, Volume II. Edited by Dr. Paul Brand. A continuation of the edition in Volume 111, with cases from 1285 to 1292. The introduction provides background information about the serjeants mentioned in the reports. ISBN 0-85423-198-6

< Volume 115, THE REPORTS OF JOHN CARYLL, Volume I. Edited by Professor J. H. Baker. This volume covers the period from 1486 to 1500. ISBN: 0-85423-135-8

< Volume 116, THE REPORTS OF JOHN CARYLL, Volume II. Edited by Professor J. H. Baker. This volume covers the period from 1501 to 1522. Some of the more interesting cases in this volume are those related to Caryll's work as a law officer. This volume also includes tables and indices for both parts of the Caryll's Reports. ISBN: 0-85423-140-4

< Volume 117, CASES CONCERNING EQUITY AND THE COURTS OF EQUITY, 1550–1660, Part I. Edited by Professor W. H. Bryson, Professor of Law, University of Richmond. A remarkable collection of hitherto-unpublished cases, this includes (in its entirety) the earliest series of manuscript reports devoted to the Chancery, that of Richard Powle, who was register of the Court of Chancery under Elizabeth I, and an anonymous collection of notes made in the time of Lord Ellesmere (Lord Keeper, 1596–1603; Chancellor, 1603–1617). As an experiment, these materials have been published entirely in English, with footnotes indicating difficult readings in the French. The corresponding records are not printed here, but so far as possible, references are made to the relevant entries in the decree and order books. This part includes specimen pleadings and reports to 1611. Considerable assistance was given in the preparation of both parts by Dr. N. G. Jones. ISBN: 0-85423-145-5

< Volume 118, CASES CONCERNING EQUITY AND THE COURTS OF EQUITY, 1550–1660, Part II. Edited by Professor W. H. Bryson, Professor of Law, University of Richmond. A continuation of the edition in vol. 117, with reports from 1611 to 1660. The tables and indices for both parts are in this volume. ISBN: 0-85423-160-9

< Volume 119, THE YEAR BOOKS OF 12-14 HENRY VIII. Edited by Professor J. H. Baker, QC, FBA, Downing Professor of the Laws of England, Cambridge. The two volumes (12-13) and 14 Henry VIII were printed not long after the cases were decided, and stand out from other year books by the selection of cases in which points of law were raised on the record rather than in extempore discussions and through tentative pleading. Although the principal texts are in print (in black-letter editions), they are not easy to use. Much can be learned from the editing process and especially from a comparison of reports and records. Unlike the content of most other year books, nearly all the cases in these volumes are identifiable in the plea rolls. ISBN: 0-85423-155

< Volume 120, REPORTS OF CASES IN THE TIME OF HENRY VIII, Vol. I. Edited by Professor J. H. Baker, Downing Professor of the Laws of England, Cambridge. This is a collection of previously unpublished reports for the period 1509-1550, a period for which the printed year books cover only seven years. Thirteen different series are included, the most important being those of Roger Yorke, Richard Pollard, John Caryll the younger, and William Yelverton. This is the first period of history for which so many separate series of reports may be distinguished, and belies Maitland's suggestion that in this period of rapid change there was a loss of interest in case law. ISBN: 0-85423-170-6

< Volume 121, REPORTS OF CASES IN THE TIME OF HENRY VIII, Vol. II. Edited by Professor J. H. Baker, Downing Professor of the Laws of England, Cambridge. This volume completes the collection of reports started in the preceding volume and supplies indexes for both volumes. ISBN: 0-85423-175-7

< Volume 122, EARLIEST ENGLISH LAW REPORTS, Volume III. Edited by Dr. Paul Brand, FBA, All Souls College, Oxford. ISBN: 0-85423-195-1

< Vol. 123, for 2006: EARLIEST ENGLISH LAW REPORTS. Vol. IV. Edited by Dr PAUL A. BRAND, This volume concludes the editing of all identifiable pre-1290 law reports. It contains cases from eyres later than those in the previous volume or which cannot be dated with certainty; reports from the Exchequer of the Jews; assize reports; and other reports from unidentified courts. The very extensive introduction surveys the beginning of law reporting, the nature of legal discourse and argument as revealed in these early reports, and the courts' approach to the interpretations and application of statutes.
ISBN: 0-85423-200-1

< Vol. 124, for 2007: THE REPORTS OF WILLIAM DALISON, 1552–1558. Edited by Sir JOHN BAKER, qc, fba, Downing Professor of the Laws of England, Cambridge. Dalison was justice of King's and Queen's Bench during the reigns of Philip and Mary. The early printed edition of reports that bears his name is puzzling, because most of the reports in the volume date from after Dalison's death in 1559. The editor has discovered a manuscript that seems to be a copy of Dalison's original, which is the basis of the edition. The reports date from 1552 to 1558 and are of particular interest because they contain a substantial number of reports of criminal cases discussed in Serjeants' Inn.
ISBN: 0-85423-210-9

< Vol. 125, for 2008: IRISH EXCHEQUER REPORTS: Cases argued and determined in the Courts of Exchequer and Chancery in Ireland, 1716–34. Edited by ANDREW LYALL, lld. This is the first volume by the Society of material from outside England but Ireland was then part of the legal regime of England and appeals lay to Westminster. The volume is based on a manuscript at Columbia University which belonged to Henry Singleton (1682–1759), the Chief Justice of the Common Pleas in Ireland. The introduction surveys the practice of the Irish Exchequer, notes points of particular interest in the reports, and provides biographies of the principal lawyers whose speeches are reported.
ISBN: 0-85423-126-9

< Vol. 126, for 2009: SELECT ECCLESIASTICAL CASES FROM THE KING'S COURTS 1272 – 1307. Edited by Professor DAVID MILLON, J.B. Stombock Professor of Law, Washington and Lee University. In this volume are collected cases in the Common Bench, King's Bench and eyres for the reign of Edward I in which conflicts of jurisdiction arose between these royal courts and the church courts. The common law's jurisdiction, though secular, and the canon law's, though spiritual, could frequently overlap: thus contract, debt, trespass, defamation, tithes, wills and all manner of criminal conduct could sometimes also have a spiritual aspect, and so be potentially justiciable in either forum. The editor's introduction, 128 pages, provides a thorough explanation of the procedural and substantive law applied in the cases.

< Vol. 127, for 2010: THREE CIVILIAN NOTEBOOKS 1580-1640. Edited by Professor R. H. HELMHOLZ, Ruth Wyatt Rosenson Distinguished Service Professor of Law, University of Chicago. This volume contains texts and translations of the notebooks compiled by three English civilians during the last half of the sixteenth century and the first half of the seventeenth. The compilers were Sir Julius Caesar (d. 1636), later MP and Master of Requests, Dr Thomas Eden (d. 1645), later MP and Master of Trinity Hall, Cambridge, and William Colman (d. 1668), registrar of the court of the archdeacon of Sudbury held at Bury St Edmunds.

< Vol. 128, for 2011: CASE NOTES OF SIR SOULDEN LAWRENCE 1787-1800B. edited by Professor JAMES OLDHAM, St. Thomas More Professor of Law and Legal History, Georgetown University Law Center. Lawrence, a Common Pleas and King's Bench judge 1794-1812, left extensive manuscript notes of his cases. These were for his own use, necessary because of the non-reporting or very-delayed reporting of cases in the central courts during most of the 18th century.
