

Edited by Scott FitzGibbon, Lynn D. Wardle & A. Scott Loveless

The culmination of papers from leading scholars from universities all over the world, including Trinity College Dublin, McGill University, Harvard Law School, Boston College and Bar-Ilan University, among others!

The chapters of this work grew out of papers that were originally presented at the Symposium on the Jurisprudence of Marriage and Other Adult Intimate Relationships. The papers from that symposium, which convened at Boston College Law School in March 2009, present the scholarly effort of leading professors from Canada, Great Britain, Israel, and Ireland, as well as the United States, and give evidence that not all developments in these areas involve the clash of ignorant armies. These papers consider various relationship forms in light of basic jurisprudential and social principles, and elevate the dialogue about marriage law and law reform to a new, higher level of discourse.

In three sections, The Jurisprudence of Marriage and Other Intimate Relationships focuses on:

Basic Goods; Basic Concerns About Marital Relationships

Implications for the Law
Social, Political and Doctrinal Attributes and Implications

The chapters of this work (view pages 2, 3 and 4 to view a complete overview) consider the conceptual foundations of the institution of conjugal marriage and for other kinds of adult intimate relationships, and explore principles of their legal recognition. As hardly a week passes without some new development regarding the legal meaning of marriage and the regulation of other relationships, the topic of the book is unquestionably timely. The chapters will contribute to the understanding of the topic at hand, and will inform important academic discussions and public policy decisions for years to come.

Item # 70070 ISBN 978-0-8377-3812-3

Pages: vii, 330 pp.

Published: Buffalo; William S. Hein & Co., Inc.; 2010

Table of Contents

Preface and Acknowledgments
Foreword by Scott FitzGibbon
I. FUNDAMENTALS: BASIC GOODS; BASIC CONCERNS ABOUT MARITAL RELATIONSHIPS
Ch. 1. Human Dignity: Its Implications for Marriage, the Family and Society
William Binchy is Regius Professor of Laws at Trinity College Dublin where he has served as Head of School of the School of Law. He has represented Ireland at the Hague Conference on Private International Law in the formulation of conventions on marriage and adoption. He is co-editor of Committed Relationships and the La (2007) and editor of Timor-Leste: Challenges for Justice and Human Rights in the Shadow of the Past (2009). He is a member of the Irish Human Rights Commission and represented the Commission in the formulation of the United Nations Convention on the Human Rights of Persons with Disabilities (2007).
Ch. 2. What Difference Does It Make if Marriage Is a Sacrament? An Historical Approach
Charles Donahue, Jr. is the Paul A. Freund Professor at the Harvard Law School, where he teaches property in the law school and various offerings on Roman, English, and Continental European legal history in both the law school and the college. He has written extensively on the history of marriage law in the West, particularly in the medieval period. His most recent book is Law, Marriage, and Society in the Later Middle Ages: Argument about Marriage in Five Courts (New York: Cambridge University Press, 2007). He is the immediate past president of the American Society for Legal History.
Ch. 3. Gender Neutrality and the Jurisprudence of Marriage
Lynn D. Wardle is the Bruce C. Hafen Professor of Law at the J. Reuben Clark Law School at Brigham Young University where he began teaching in 1978. His primary fields of teaching and writing are family law, comparative family law, conflict of laws, and U.S. constitutional history. Professor Wardle was President (2000-2002) and Secretary General (1994-2000) of the International Society of Family Law (ISFL), and serves on the ISFL Executive Council. He also is a member of the American Law Institute. His recent publications include What's the Harm? Does Legalizing Same-Sex Marriage Really Harm Individuals, Families of Society (2008) and Marriage and Quasi-Marital Relationships in Central and Eastern Europe (2008).
Ch. 4. "You Can't Get There From Here": A Reply to Proposals to Disestablish Marriage as the Path to Care
Helen M. Alvaré

Helen M. Alvaré teaches Family Law and other subjects at George Mason University School of Law. Previously she taught at the Columbus School of Law at the Catholic University of America. She worked in the Office of General Counsel for the National Conference of Catholic Bishops and with the Secretariat for Pro-Life Activities. Alvaré chaired a commission investigating clerical abuse in the Archdiocese of Philadelphia and is an advisor to Pope Benedict XVI's Pontifical Council for Laity. Her scholarship focuses on marriage, parenting, and new reproductive techniques.

II. FUNDAMENTALS: IMPLICATIONS FOR THE LAW

Ch. 5. "Just Like Little Dogs": The Law Should Speak with Veracity and Respect

107 Scott FitzGibbon

Scott FitzGibbon is a graduate of the Harvard Law School (J.D.), where he was an Articles Officer of the Harvard Law Review, and of Oxford University (B.C.L.), where he studied legal philosophy. He is a professor at Boston College Law School, a member of the American Law Institute, and a member of the International Society of Family Law. He is the author of "Marriage and the Good of Obligation" (American Journal of Jurisprudence, 2002), "Marriage and the Ethics of Office" (Notre Dame Journal of Law, Ethics, and Public Policy, 2004), and more.

Ch. 6. On the Legal Validation of Sexual Relationships

143 Richard Stith

Richard Stith is a Professor of Law at Valparaiso University School of Law, where he has taught since 1973. He has also served as Director, Biomedical Ethics, at St. Louis University School of Law and Visiting Professor at a number of international universities. Among his recent publications are: "Location and Life: How Stenberg v. Carhart Undercut Roe v. Wade," 9 Wm. Mary J. Women & L. 225 (2003) and "Securing the Rule of Law through Interpretive Pluralism: An Argument from Comparative Law," 35 Hastings Const. L.Q. 401 (2008).

Ch. 7. Spousal Rights and Spousal Duties: The Liberal Case for Privileging Marriage

165 Shahar Lifshitz

Shahar Lifshitz is a Law Professor in the Faculty of Law, Bar-llan University, Israel. He received a B.A. in Law and Psychology from Bar-llan University in 1996, and his Ph.D. in Law from the same institution in 2002. Dr. Lifshitz is a researcher at the Israeli Institute for Democracy, where his specific task is to formulate a proposed law to regulate the registration of secular spouses in a civil spouses register in Israel. He participates in the meetings of the Israeli Knesset Constitution, Law, and Justice Committee, and advises the legislators on family law issues. Lifshitz's recent works include Civil Regulation of the Spousal Relationship (Hebrew, forthcoming), Cohabitation Law in Israel from the Perspective of a Civil Law Theory of the Family, and "Distress Explanation Contracts in the Shadow of the No Duty to Rescue" (University of North Carolina Law Review, 2008).

Ch. 8. Same-Sex Marriage—From Privacy to Equality: The Failure of the "Equality" Justifications for Same-Sex Marriage

195 Robert John Araujo, S.J.

Robert John Araujo, S.J., holds law degrees from Georgetown, Columbia, and Oxford Universities. He practiced law with a federal regulatory agency for five years and with a major oil company for almost six years prior to entering the Society of Jesus. For twelve years he taught at Gonzaga University in Spokane and for two years at the Pontifical Gregorian University in Rome. Since 1997, he has served as an advisor to the Holy See on matters dealing with public international law. He is currently the inaugural holder of a new endowed professorship at Loyola University, Chicago: the John Courtney Murray, SJ University Professorship.

III. SOCIAL, POLITICAL AND DOCTRINAL ATTRIBUTES AND IMPLICATIONS

Ch. 9. The Failure of the Liberal Family

237 Susan Shell

Susan Shell is Professor and Chair of the Department of Political Science at Boston College. Her publications include books and essays on modern political philosophy and its bearing on contemporary jurisprudence and issues of marriage and the family. She is the author of "The Liberal Critique of Gay Marriage" (The Public Interest, 2004). Her most recent book, Kant and the Limits of Autonomy, is forthcoming from Harvard University Press.

Ch. 10. The Problem of "Nature" in Family Law

257 Daniel Cere

Daniel Cere is a member of the Faculty of Religious Studies at McGill University where he teaches and writes in the fields of religion, law, human rights, social ethics, gender, sexuality and marriage, and Catholic social thought. Among his recent publications are "Should Same-Sex Marriage Be Accepted" in Crosscurrents: Contemporary Political Issues (5th ed. 2006), and Divorcing Marriage (co-edited with Douglas Farrow, 2005).

Ch. 11. Cousin Marriage

291 The Rt. Hon the Baroness (Ruth) Deech

The Rt. Hon the Baroness (Ruth) Deech is a member of the House of Lords of the United Kingdom. She is former Principle of St. Anne's College, Oxford (1991-2004), where she taught Family Law and other subjects, and served as Pro-Vice-Chancellor of the University of Oxford (2001-2004). She now lectures at Gresham College in London where she is Professor. She is a specialist in reproductive law, medicine and ethics, including the overlap in family and reproductive law.

Ch. 12. Sisterly Love: The Importance of Explicitly Assumed Commitment in the Legal Recognition of Personal Relationships

305 Oran Doyle

Oran Doyle lectures in constitutional law and jurisprudence at Trinity College, Dublin, and is a practicing barrister. He is the author of Constitutional Equality Law (2004) and Constitutional Law: Text, Cases and Materials (2008). He has published widely in the fields of constitutional law, equality law, and jurisprudence.

